

To the Planning Department.

To whom it may concern 02.02.19

I just keep wondering if the Planners realize how much they have ruined and spoiled the whole Chickesles area in the past years with the absolute over development, with regard to far too much housing, which has resulted in the complete destruction of the previous semi rural aspect of this part of West Sussex, and now even much more building is being started. In fact this whole area has changed to one of urbanisation. The obvious loss of countryside and farmland is an abhorrent prospect with the building of so many large housing estates, which in its turn reduces some forms of wildlife.

Also the A27 is at certain times becoming almost impassable, which results in having to drive through the city area, instead of the Bypass which cancels out the bypass original purpose

As a long resident of West Sussex I find it very distressing to see all this overdevelopment.

Yours Sincerely
